About us

Erregi s.r.l. was founded in 1996 by tens of years experience in Italian agro-industrial field that, thanks to our favourable weather conditions, offers a unique range of foods considered the princes of Mediterranean diet with a huge variety different from region to region and famous in all the world. The peculiarity of our Italian foods that make them unique is born from a combination of tradition, culture, long history, ancient experiences and secrets handed from centuries giving our pasta, preserved vegetables, vegetable oils, wines and hundreds of other products the typical fragrance and taste of our fields, hills and seals not comparable with the plenty of imitated items produced in other countries and described with our same Italian name that is often the only attribute in common.

Our activity is fully oriented to export a wide range of Italian food products even in most remote corners of the world. We are involved with production of tens of products under our own brands with packages suitable for consumers market, catering market and even for industrial use.

Accurate selection of raw materials, inner quality control in manufacturing process of each exported food product, packing material of first class suitable and customized for each overseas market, skilful sales team with knowledge of world markets usages, location very close to the main shipping ports in Italy and a complete logistic support from an expert team are the key points of our success with the aim to put forward our motto: "Make the authentic Italian long food tradition available for everybody at reasonable prices".

fine diced tomato pulp

Description

Our fine pulp has a bright red colour with an intense flavour, it is made from sun-ripened tomatoes and only made during the summer when the harvesting and processing are done on the same day to conserve the tomatoes' freshness, colour and aroma

Being a unique product because it pairs diced tomato pulp with tomato juice, our fine diced tomato pulp has more water than the 'passata' which is why it is perfect for egg-based pasta since egg-based pasta is not as smooth as semolina-based pasta and absorbs more sauce. This pulp is also perfect for baking and long-cooking times but it can be also tried with bruschetta or pizza when the fresh tomato flavor needs to be maintained.

mashed tomatoes

Description

This is the most famous product from the preserved tomatoes range made according to the Italian tradition.

It is named also 'sieved tomatoes' or 'mashed tomatoes' or 'tomato puree' but it is a unique product from Italy and imitated in the whole world. The 'original passata' is made only from fresh tomatoes not from the tomato paste and strictly from the Italian tomatoes of South of Italy.

Passata can be used in soups, stews, sauces, or any other dish where the tomato flavor is desired.

pizza sauce brix 12/14%

Description

This is a tomato sauce ideal for the pizza but also for a dish of spaghetti 'al dente'. It is different from the Usa version, the ketchup, and it is made by 100% Italian fresh tomatoes and it could be flavoured with some Italian herbs and vegetable oil. It is a dense puree with a characteristic brilliant red colour.

La pasta italiana special cuts

Description

Erregi is involved with a production of a traditional line of pasta from the heart of the Campania region.

The 'CASTELLO DI BATTIPAGLIA' pasta extruded through bronze is made solely from durum wheat semolina and pure water. The extruding is a very important phase to get a good quality product. Processing of the dough takes place through the "trafila", a special tool that determines the shape. The dough is pushed against this that has shaped holes, allowing the realization of the desired format. Traditionally the "trafile" are made in bronze, although in recent decades they have been replaced with those of steel or coated with Teflon by many companies. However, the results are very different! The pasta extruded through bronze is a higher quality product because it has a rough surface, more suitable to hold the sauce, while others have a smoother appearance and retain less condiments. The drying process also enables a good grip and consistency of the dough. This process can be fast or slow and takes place in special controlled heating tunnel. The duration and the drying temperature varies depending on the format of pasta.

La pasta italiana long cuts

Description

Our pasta is made 100% in the plant of Eboli belonging to the TMT group, the second largest pasta producer in Italy, in an area of 145.000 sqmt including a plant for collecting wheat grains, two mills for processing durum wheat semolina and pasta factory. We can control the product at 360° from the raw wheat grain to durum wheat semolina and finally to the finished pasta in the bag!

Our main advantage is that we buy the durum wheat and have the means to control always a regular blend of semolina flour guaranteeing a stable quality of pasta each time we produce it.

La pasta italiana nidi cuts

Description

These cuts of pasta are very popular and very required from every chef in the world. They are made with 100% selected durum wheat.

Tagliatelle

They are a traditional type of pasta from Emilia Romagna and Marches, regions of Italy. Individual pieces of tagliatelle are long, flat ribbons that are similar in shapes to fettuccine and are typically about 0,5 cm to 1 cm wide.

Cooking suggestions: tagliatelle can be served with a variety of sauces also with fish and shellfish sauces, though the classic is a meat sauce or Bolognese sauce.

Fettuccine

Larger than the tagliatelle. The name comes from the "fettuccce", the hem used for the dresses. Probably its country of origin is Latium, central Italy, but they are common also in Emilia Romagna.

Cooking suggestion: this shape is perfect for all sauces like fish and shellfish sauces, we recommend the meat sauce a la Bolognese (meat, tomato, green peas).

Red kidney beans naturally boiled

Description

They are a good source of protein and when combined with a whole grain such as whole wheat pasta or brown rice provide protein comparable to that of meat or dairy foods without the saturated fat found in these foods.

Red kidney beans are the favorite beans to be used in simmered dishes due to their shape hold well during cooking.

Artichokes in brine

Description

Over the years, the artichoke has served both as a vegetable treat as well as a precious therapeutic plant. The roots and leaves of the artichoke plants have been valued by people since the medieval ages as they have been found to be highly beneficial in healing lethargic livers. Artichoke roots and leaves are also effectual in treating kidney problems and arteriosclerosis. The hearts and leaves of the artichokes are rich in alkaline ash content. The artichokes also contain substantial amount of fiber or cellulose that may prove to be detrimental for people suffering from high irritation of the bowel. A medium artichoke contains 10 grams of fiber but just 120 calories.

"Artichokes are a good source of silymarin, which is one of the most liver-friendly nutrients in the world".

Balsamic vinegar of Modena

Description

From six months to four years aged in larch wood and refined in durmast barrels, it is "balsamic vinegar" of good quality and perfect aroma. Ideal for the channels dedicated to a high turnover of the product, it represents a convenient invitation to try a new taste: balsamic vinegar of Modena while in the more aged version has the typical fragrance of a superior product, "Finely Matured" balsamic vinegar, with a sweetness exquisitely combined to its acid resembling the taste of the long aged Traditional Balsamic vinegar.
